This Ogg Traffic brought to you by Arc Riley

posted by Carsten on 2004-02-09 10:09:40.58

Since I don't have time anymore to work on Ogg Traffic, Arc decided to help me out and has put together this new issue of Ogg Traffic. Arc won't take over the job permanently, though, so please let us know if you want to help.

RealNetworks and Helix buy into Ogg posted by Monty on 2004-01-20 23:53:51.74

A triple treat! First, RealNetworks has awarded the Xiph.Org foundation one of its Helix Grants to support continued development of Ogg, second, the Real Helix player now supports Vorbis and [alpha-release] Theora, and third, Real has announced its intention to support Ogg across client, server and native production tools.

The Helix Community Homepage carries some of the news plus links to the new Ogg support in the Helix player. Xiph.Org also has its own Helix Community homepage, but it's new and doesn't have much there... yet.

Release, Release, Release!

It took longer than expected, but Vorbis 1.0.1 has finally been released. This release also coincides with the first beta of Icecast 2 and a Speex 1.0.3 bugfix release. Read all about these new releases, Xiph.org's trip to California, and more in this new edition of Ogg Traffic.

Waiting for Vorbis 1.0.1

posted by Carsten on 2003-09-30
20:30:01.90

After a bit of a hiatus that I spent working on a long neglected coding side-project of mine, I decided to put together a new issue of Ogg Traffic.

The bad news is that Vorbis 1.0.1 is being held hostage by Win32 build problems, but the good news is that Monty is already bravely charging ahead to work on Vorbis 1.1.
