École Polytechnique
École Nationale Supérieure des Télécommunications, Paris

Since September 1994

- Consultant for major companies in Web-based projects
- July 1995: Winner of the BMW Foundation/Fondation de France Initiatives 1995 contest.

Since September 1993

- Consultant for companies and state administrations, in the following domains: Unix, TCP/IP, Computer Security and... multimedia!

I also do in-company teaching, usually on a weekly basis or for a couple of days, on various topics such as Unix administration or C++.

- Computer Science teacher in Ecole Polytechnique:
 - since January 1994:
Systems and Networks course in the Fundamentals of Computer Science major
 - September 1993 - December 1994:
Algorithms and Programming course
- studying Economics in ENST (Ecole Nationale Supérieure des Télécommunications), Paris.

May 1994: Winner of the Best of Web'94 award for Best Use of Multiple Media.

September 1990 - August 1993

- studying Sciences at the Ecole Polytechnique (France).
Graduated in July 1993
 - April 1993 - August 1993:
Spring internship in Microsoft Corporation (Redmond, near Seattle, WA), for the final stage of Windows NT. I was mainly interested by the NT kernel and the TCP/IP network implementation.
Memorandum: ``Network programming: From BSD Unix to Windows NT''.

My other interests include Latin and Ancient Greek, classical theatre, Mylène Farmer... and working on the Internet on my free time, late at night and on week-ends. Actually I didn't have much free time since last September!

The ``visible part'' of my iceberg on the Internet includes

- this web server, mostly known for the WebMuseum stuff worldwide and the guignols sound samples among the French-speaking community
- the IRCprimer, a 50 pages IRC manual.

Geographically speaking, I am a happy citizen of Paris since 1985, but I enjoy travelling around a lot. I have toured in many European countries (except Northern European countries unfortunately) and my last holidays were spent around Arizona, Nevada (Las Vegas!) and California during summer '93.
