ROSIE THE RIVETER STORIES

Ford Motor Company, the National Park Service (NPS), and the National Park Foundation (NPF) announce an exciting new partnership to support Rosie the Riveter/WWII Home Front National Historical Park in Richmond, CA:

Library of Congress - LC-USW361-212

As part of our effort to preserve our national heritage, we are seeking stories, memories or anecdotes about the wartime home front embodied by "Rosie."

Rosie the Riveter/WWII Home Front National Historical Park in Richmond, CA has the largest concentration of intact WWII historic structures and sites in the United States. The stories and artifacts collected through this initiative will be incorporated by the Park into future exhibits, research centers and historic records, to bring to life the stories of the women and men who came together on the home front to help ensure victory overseas during WWII.

Ford, a Proud Partner of America's National Parks, is generously supporting this effort in partnership with the National Park Foundation through a grant to Rosie the Riveter/WWII Home Front National Historical Site.
